

For Educational Professionals

© 2001 Rod Hess

Angels are messengers sent down from above,
to guide and protect us in the spirit of love.
With a gentle whisper they can offer advice,
to help us fulfill our purpose in life.

Educational professionals are like angels, you know,
for they share their knowledge to help students grow.
Through patience, encouragement and at times being firm,
they instill in their students a life-long spirit to learn.

So, to help you serve your profession with pride, here's an Angel Guardian who will stay close by your side.
She will whisper the answers to the problems you face,
in preparing your students to make the world a better place.

.....

The educational environment provides a great opportunity for all faculty and staff to utilize their talent and skills to inspire, motivate and challenge students to discover and develop their untapped potential. And, for this reason, they must strive to create and maintain a strong positive school culture that provides a safe environment based on discipline, respect, compassion, and accountability, to enable maximum learning to take place. Display the For Educational Professionals Light of Inspiration in a prominent place in your school to remind all educational professionals that they do, indeed, have a profound influence on the students.

- * Use in conjunction with in-service programs for faculty and staff.
- * For use in new faculty/staff orientation programs.
- * Use the pocket cards as a “take away” from in-service programs.
- * Display in the education department at your college/university.
- * Use as a graduation present for individuals entering the field of education.
- * Display in the lobby of your school.