

Politicians

© 2001 Rod Hess

Angels appear to help others in need,
they accomplish their task and take nothing for their deed.
The reward for their task is watching people find ways to live God's love so they can better mankind.

Politicians are like angels, for they hold in their hands,
the power to make life better for their fellow man.
The decisions they make must be carefully weighed,
and guided by service and not political gain.

And so, to help you make those tough decisions, at times, here's an Angel Guardian who is always by your side.
She will "whisper" advice so you will never forget,
to do what is right and not just "politically correct!"

The culture of politics has always been, and will always be, filled with intrigue, "good 'ol boy cronyism, and corruption. Sadly, those politicians who seek to do the right thing are often seen as a threat to the status quo. Consequently, they are forced to choose between standing by their principles or compromising them — a hard choice that has both personal and political ramifications.

- * Display the light in a prominent place at political events to remind all, "to do what is right and not just politically correct."
- * Use as a gift for newly-elected officials.
- * Send a pocket card to the politicians who represent you.
